Chapter 1 by JeLLy_JaMs15

Hello my brave survivor! I'm going to tell you a story, but this doesn't start with a "once upon a time" or ends with a "Happily ever after". It all began after a sudden melting to the polar ice caps. The Government had to act fast! They started messing around with Nuclear and Hydro power combined or "experimented with unlimited power".

The government sent a small gang to work on it. They got there grubby hands on it and it all went down the drain, just like the toxic waste.

Unfortunately, the waste drained straight through the sewers and spread into the rivers and the streams that young children ran straight through the waste but what they didn't know that the couple steps would make millions of people run thousand of miles. So just in case you are a total idiot, children mutants (Zombies) they bite adults, adults bite others people and you should know the drill by know, so that is why the club is JUST ALIVE INSIDE.

So... welcome to the club! are you strong enough?, Fast enough? or clever enough to be inside our club? Would you risk your life for a bag of chips? If so you are a complete idiot! We only survived because every day we would stay inside and play Call Of Duty or World Of Warcraft! So luckily, we are still alive because we had no life. We only talked to our friends, if we did meet up it would be once a year or on Skype. The first encounter we had was when my dog at one of our meet up, the dog tried to bite us after it had bite the neighbours cat, I mean "SERIOUSLY WHO BITES A CAT EVEN IF THEY WERE A MUTANT". So of course we did the best thing we could do. RUN! All around the apartment and grab anything next to us to use. Which of course someone had to grab the... Toilet brush. Then is when we realised the best place to kill a mutant is the back of the knee so we all put everything together and made a super suit (Good job one

(I was pretty rich) And it included

Of course it forever to make and actually get use to it but when there's 1,000 maybe 2,000 slicing though all of them feels amazing. Plus we are getting so many more members trying to help us out and join us but, every person that joins, one is added to the fight of the revolting army. We just hit one million people helping us fight the millions of mutants out there, but when there up sides there are always down sides. Now the mutants are starting to understand the suit, will this make this whole thing an even harder challenge. Many people have died thinking "Hit the head" from many films and games so it makes you almost scream someone going "quick hit 'em in the head" and being turned into their dinner.
